La Pasta

Pasta is one of the oldest and most popular foods in the world. Its origins trace back to ancient civilizations, with early forms believed to have been made by the Chinese over 4,000 years ago. However, pasta as we know it today is closely associated with Italian cuisine. It is said that Marco Polo introduced the concept to Italy during his travels in the 13th century. Since then, pasta has become a staple of Italian culinary culture and has spread across the globe. Industrial production of pasta began in the 19th century, and with the advancement of the food industry, it is now available in a wide variety of shapes and types to suit different tastes and dishes.

Pasta.. a story of passion that begins with the very first grain

At “Ewan Grup”, pasta production is not just an industrial process running through modern machines and advanced production lines – it is a passionate story told with pride and crafted with genuine love. Our journey with every product begins by carefully selecting the finest durum wheat. We treat each grain as a precious treasure – sending only the best to our specialized mills while discarding anything that doesn’t meet our strict quality standards. For us, durum wheat semolina is not just an ingredient; it is the secret behind the quality and the soul of every variety of pasta we produce. At every stage of production, we infuse our process with precision and care, resulting in products filled with excellence, made with love, and ready to become part of your everyday moments around the table.

Our goal goes far beyond manufacturing. We strive to create an exceptional taste experience that touches the senses and satisfies every palate. Our customers are our partners in success, our constant source of inspiration, and they are the ones who always deserve the very best, made with love.

Because those who deserve the best, deserve Asaas Food products.
